Research Interests

Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning, with emphasis on systems that combine knowledge, reasoning, learning, and sensings. My technical work is divided between three areas: (a) logic-based knowledge representation and reasoning, (b) probabilistic reasoning and machine learning, and (c) human-level AI theory and systems. Examples of my work include logical-particle filters, Bayesian inverse reinforcement learning, factored planning, lifted relational probability inference, and Human-Turing machines. Recent applications of my work include diagnosing water systems, internet crawling decisions, intelligent game agents, natural-language processing, and robot motion planning.
